Hi Julie,

Thanks for your message and appreciate your response. The biggest challenge is that the front room is a bit small with the current roof slant so it's somewhat unusable for us. We would like to use it as a home office and would really like the addition space as I am a bit of a giant up there. Let me know if we can go with the original plan. Thank you

Spencer

Thanks Spencer. Question for you...

We have someone working on the write up of your application (Findings of Fact) for the Village Review Board and in reviewing your application for design she had a question. She is wondering how it would affect your plans if you were to pull the dormer back from the front of the house and start it directly over the recessed front door. She thought that from a design perspective, the dormer would be less likely to detract from the entrance of the home, which is a nice architectural feature. Please let me know your feelings about this and how it would affect your plans for the interior of the building as soon as you can.

Thank you,
